Nashville, TN – June 25. Volunteers of America of Kentucky and Tennessee has received a $12,500 grant from The HCA Foundation. The grant will be used for general operating expenses for the agency’s Mental Retardation and Developmental Disabilities (MRDD) programs in Middle Tennessee.

The MRDD Supported Housing Program is key to the health and well-being of some of Middle Tennessee’s most vulnerable people. Approximately 60 residents receive around-the-clock professional care and support in 20 neighborhood-based supported living homes in Murfreesboro and Nashville. This allows them to live safely in a nurturing environment that promotes civic involvement and a greater quality of life.

President and CEO Jane W. Burks said, "The support we have received from The HCA Foundation is especially important as seek to continuously improve our services to individuals with disabilities. We are extremely grateful for all that HCA has done to support the work that Volunteers of America does in the communities that we serve."

The HCA Foundation has made grants to Volunteers of America each year since 2004. Also, Chris Tobe, Vice President of Product Development, serves as a member of the Tennessee Advisory Council.

The HCA Foundation is “dedicated to building stronger, healthier communities through outreach and philanthropy by working partnership with our employees to serve effective non-profit organizations.”

Volunteers of America of Kentucky and Tennessee is a human services nonprofit with more than 800 employees and 500 volunteers in four states and served more than 8,000 people last year.
